COLORFUL PAGEANT OF OLDEN DAYS SHOWED LIFE AND HAPPY CUSTOMS OF ISLAND ROYALTY

Tourists and Townsfolk Alike Delighted With Well Costumed Attraction

A striking bit of Hawaii's history, akin to that of the joyous days of 100, or possibly 200 years ago, was called up out of the past and reenacted at Kapiolani park yesterday afternoon in the presence of several thousand tourists and townsfolk.

Rich in coloring, well acted and as perfect in the portrayal of the legendary romance of King Lono and Kaiulani, his wife, as time and place could make it, the Hawaiian pageant proved itself a stellar feature in the big Carnival program, and was rightly deserving of the generous applause which it was accorded, as well as the enthusiastic approval with which it was stamped by kamaaina and malihini alike.

Queen Enjoys Pageant.

An interested spectator was Queen Liliuokalani, who was seated in a palm-thatched shelter in company with Col. Curtis P. Iaukea and party. Her majesty looked unusually well and displayed intense interest in the various actions of the pageant. She was generous with her applause, and equally generous in complying with requests of tourist photographers who besieged her booth for permission to take her picture. A signal honor was paid the queen when six Kamehameha cadets, in feather cloaks and helmets, were stationed before the stand with Pulelolu kahlia and torches of Iwikauka, the royal insignia of Liliuokalani.

The setting of the pageant was beautiful, with the long, high rows of Oahu's eastern hills as a background. Bleachers were formed in a circle about a large stand, covered with palm thatching, which served as the throne of King Lono and contained seats for those who were his retainers. Handsome tapas spread here and there gave the place an air of ancient royalty, to which was added the beauty of waving kahlia of many hues and types. A rich blend of color was afforded by the costumes worn by those who took part and last, but not least, perfect weather aided materially in making the pageant a success.

Many Notables Present.

In the director-general's stand were, among others, Governor Lucius R. Pinkham and party, Secretary of the Territory Wade Warren Thayer and party, Mayor John C. Lane and party, Mr. and Mrs. Jack London, Brig.-Gen. Samuel I. Johnson of the National Guard, as well as a number of army and navy officers and parties. The Hawaiian band and a Hawaiian orchestra played alternately during the pageant.

The pageant probably was attended by more persons than any other even of this year's Carnival thus far held. The ushers did their work skillfully and quickly, and there was no delay in getting the big crowd comfortably seated. Much credit is due to the Sons and Daughters of Warriors of Hawaii, under whose auspices the pageant was produced, and those who took part, for the success of the affair. The committee in charge was composed of Mrs. Fred W. Macfarlane, chairman; Princess Kahanalana, Mrs. J. M. Dowsett, Mrs. J. K. Kamae, Mrs. M. K. Kamae, and Mayor John C. Lane.

Treasured Heirlooms. A feature of the pageant, and one which probably was better understood and appreciated by Hawaiian residents than by tourists and other visitors, was the wealth of treasured heirlooms taken from local homes and other places of safe-keeping to add to the beauty and reality of the fete. Handsome kahlia, banded down for generations, waved their plumed tops above the heads of the paraders. Priceless feather cloaks and helmets, blending black, red, orange and white, formed costumes for many of those who participated. Many ancient ornaments, brought out of treasure chests and curio cabinets especially for the occasion, adorned the principal actors. A praiseworthy piece of work was done by the person who designed the less expensive costumes for the pageant, as, in many instances, a plain, white piece of canvas had been transformed into a remarkably correct facsimile of tapa. The entire spectacle was carried out with a view to perfect detail.

Opens With Burst of Color. To the thump-thump of tom-toms, and with a burst of color, the pageant opened with a parade of feudal chieftains, chieftesses and other nobility of Oahu bringing the Hookupu tax to the chief steward of Kakuhiwa, the king of East Oahu, who was residing with his court at Kailua. The nobility, all in the colorful and striking costumes of the period, were followed by a set of hula dancers, kahlia bearers, then ran in announcing the arrival of the king, Kakuhiwa, who entered preceded by Lanahui, grand councillor. The king, an aged man in royal robes and long, feather cloak and tall feather helmet, made a profound impression on the big audience and was well applauded.

Following the king were his wives, with their attendants. A number of small children were featured in this section of the pageant, the youngsters being scantily attired in malo and cloak.

Entrance of King.

The entrance of King Lono, king of Hawaii, was the signal for increased activity. He was attended by high chiefs and retainers with two famous kahlia, eieleaniani (black) and Haulaia (red). The chiefs bore a royal calabash, famous because of the fact that it contained the bones of six rebel chiefs of Hawaii who had been slain by King Lono's father.

The parade features of the pageant were concluded by the arrival of Kaiulani, Lono's queen, who had been searching for her husband since a quarrel which resulted in Lono's leaving his island, so the story runs. She was attended by high chiefs with kahlia, bearers of the royal insignia, and retainers, all in beautiful and many-hued costumes. With the reconciliation of Lono and Kaiulani, the sports of the occasion were begun.

Ancient Sports Revived.

First on the program of sports was an exciting race around the pavilion by two stalwart Hawaiians, which caused considerable merriment. This was followed by an exhibition of the ancient hula-hula dancing, in which three women and two men took part, the latter beating time on gourds. The dancers were watched with much interest as they glided around the pavilion.

An exhibition of sport which brought roars of laughter from the grandstands was that of the old-time method of boxing, in which six men stand in parallel lines and strike and defend. One of the participants was a very old Hawaiian, with scanty white hair and beard, who cavorted as quickly as a youngster in spite of the burden of many years.

Spear-Throwing Contest.

Four young Hawaiians then gave an exhibition of spear-throwing and catching, which recalled to one's mind the prowess of Kamehameha the Great, who was an expert in this sport.

The sports over, the actors formed into an orderly parade and, after making the round of the pavilion, marched out of the enclosure amid a roar of applause from the grandstands and the snapping of many camera shutters. This ended the day's event.

The pageant was, in many ways, superior to the one of last year, and those who gave their time and attention to it are worthy of unstinted praise.

ARREST HONJO AND HIS COMMITTEE OF MONEY GATHERERS

(Special Cable to Nippon Jiji.)

TOKIO, Feb. 24.—Supposedly on a charge in connection with the funds which they have been collecting for the monument which is to be erected in honor of the late Gen. Nogi, arrests have been made of Viscount Honjo, chairman, and all the members of his soliciting committee.

Gen. Nogi is the officer who with his wife committed suicide on the night of the funeral of the late emperor was held in Tokio.

FORD PACIFISTS STILL WORKING ON MISSION

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 25.—Eight members of the Ford peace party returned from abroad last night. They announced that the expedition has cost something like $400,000 to date, and that the work is still being carried on by other members of the original party who were left behind.

PAVED ROADS ARE FIRST STEP IN OHIO'S MILITARY PREPAREDNESS

PAVED TRUCK ROUTE

U.S. ARMORED CAR

Cleveland, which has established the first permanent military school for training citizens, also leads in preparedness for proper military transport. The immense importance of motor vans, armored cars, motor and motor ambulances in the present European war has caused it to be described as a "gasoline war." Cleveland is the center of a 400 mile system of brick highways and inter-city trucking operations over these roads have assumed great importance. Military men say that these roads and trucks could be changed from a peace to a war footing with a minimum of effort. Their adaptability to this use will be tested by military maneuvers in the early spring.

Spectacles and Gay Events Crowding Fast on One Another During Carnival

Complete plans for each day of the Mid-Pacific Carnival, and preliminary sporting events, leave little leisure for those who feel bound to "take in" every one of the big features.

The hours given in the following tabulated program, though they differ somewhat from previous announcements of events, are taken from official announcements and from the season tickets. If changes are made they will be noted in this space.

LETTERS FROM FRONT TELL OF RECEIPT OF HAWAII'S XMAS GIFTS

From out of the trenches and battlefields of Europe have come letters to Honolulu acknowledging receipt of a large shipment of gifts which the members of the British Association Club, this city, forwarded late last year to soldiers, sailors and Red Cross nurses who were connected with Hawaii and who were enlisted with the Allies.

Writing from an army hospital in Northern France, Miss Claire Jordan, Red Cross nurse, says that the receipt of her gifts reminded her of unpacking a Christmas stocking. She sends aloha to all of her Honolulu friends. Sgt. Edmund Clark, connected with the 24 Canadian Brigade, asks for Honolulu newspapers and mentions that a muffer which he received was very cosy. He tells of the death of John French, who used to work on the Inter-Island boats.

Among the others writing from the front are Lance Cpl. R. G. Mackenzie, with the Cameron Highlanders; Sgt. W. Pollock, with the Royal Engineers; Pvt. John Mackenzie, with the 6th Seaforth Highlanders; Trooper T. J. S. Muirhead, with Lovat's Scouts, and Pvt. V. Woodburn-Heron, with the London Scottish.

PURCHASE OF CHESAPEAKE AND DELAWARE CANAL

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Purchase of the Chesapeake and Delaware canal for not more than $2,500,000 and the expenditure of $5,000,000 in improving and fortifying it were proposed in a bill introduced by Senator Saulsbury of Delaware.

The bill is based on a recent report of the secretary of war that a sea level canal between the Delaware and Chesapeake bays would be of great military importance.

The canal would permit a force of submarines to be held at either of the two bays and used with equal efficiency in either, the bill relates. The bill also proposes to appropriate $480,000 at once for the purpose of preventing the occupancy of Delaware bay by warships and transports of an enemy.

Four steamers are to be built by the Toledo Shipbuilding Company for Norwegian interests at a cost of $1,000,000.

"JIMMY LEGS" SOON WILL BE NO MORE IN UNITED STATES NAVY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The passing of "Jimmy Legs," which is a man of war's name for the master at arms charged with the duty of maintaining discipline, is told in the annual report of the bureau of navigation. The report says the number of men in that rating has been reduced and the rating itself soon will be abolished.

"It is not believed," says the report, "that a special police force is needed aboard ship. Every petty officer should be made to feel he has his share of responsibility in maintaining discipline."

"Jimmy Legs" and his mates are traditions handed down from the very beginnings of the British navy. For generations navy jokers have turned about the activities of the master-at-arms, and with the abolishment of the rating another of the links is broken that connect the steel-clad fighting machines of today with the gallant frigates of the past.

GOD GIVE US MEN.

God give us men. The time demands
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith, and willing hands;
Men whom the test of office does not kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor, men who will not lie;
Men who can stand before a demagogue
And damn his treacherous flat-teries without winking;
Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty and in private thinking;
For while the rabble with their thumb-worn creeds,
Their large professions and little deeds
Mingle in selfish strife; lo! Freedom weeps!
Wrong rules the land, and waiting justice sleeps!

AUTO TRANSPORT CORPS PLANNED BY ARMY MEN

Spanish War Veteran to Organize Owners of Machines in Bay City

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 25.—Army officers stationed at the Presidio have formally approved a plan by which an automobile corps for transporting troops in time of war is to be organized in this city. The organization of the corps among the automobile owners of San Francisco has begun under the guidance of Capt. H. D. Ryus, who commanded a company during the Spanish-American war.

It is expected that as soon as possible maneuvers will be held with the first units of the corps, in order to get them into training as speedily as can be done.

CHINA'S CAPTAIN LODGES PROTEST AGAINST HOLDUP

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) NAGASAKI, Japan, Feb. 25.—The captain of the steamer China, recently stopped by British cruisers and searched, has protested against the action of the warships. His protest was formally lodged with the American consul here last night. The British removed 28 Germans, passengers on board the China, eight Austrians and two Turks. The China, although owned by Chinese capital, is under the American flag.

THE HAWAIIAN ANNUAL

This handy book of information pertaining to Hawaii covers the natural points of inquiry of all visitors to these islands and presents in its statistical features the latest revised tables of population, elevation, distances, imports and exports, immigration, taxation, school, rainfall and vital statistics, sugar crops, plantations and agencies, etc., with a faithfulness that has long won it place as the recognized reference book of the islands in official and business circles both here and abroad.

Its special papers each issue cover historic research, reminiscence, folklore, description, agricultural and commercial development, etc., and retrospect of the year's events and progress, with a register and directory covering territorial, city and county and federal officials, etc., a book of over 200 pages. 8vo. paper; price 75 cents, or 85 cents mailed to any address. Thrums, Ltd., 1063 Fort St.—Adv.

Last year the fisheries bureau of the United States distributed more than 3,500,000 baby fish and 500,000 eggs to the inland waters of the country.

A delegation of about fifty of the boyhood friends and acquaintances of Gov. Whitman of New York, escorted him to the nearby village of Canfield, where the Governor spent his youth.

MILLION SAILORS NEEDED TO MAN SHIPS FOR WAR

Admiral Winslow Declares One Up-to-Date Fighter Could Wipe Out Pacific Fleet

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 25.—That 1,021,515 men will be needed to properly man the fleets of the United States when on a war footing, was the assertion of Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, in speaking before the house committee on naval affairs yesterday afternoon. The admiral asserted that this was the minimum number of effective and trained men the country would be able to get along with in case of active hostilities.

In comparison, and to show the present weakened state of the naval defenses of the nation, Admiral Badger said that by the end of 1917, on the present peace basis, there would be commissioned only 67,000 men.

Greater Navy For West Coast. Admiral Badger was followed before the committee by Rear-Admiral Cameron MacR. Winslow, commander of the Pacific fleet, who urged the need of greater naval protection for the western coast of the United States.

Winslow told the congressmen that, "under certain conditions, too well known to need mention, one battleship of the latest class could account for all of the American navy now on the Pacific coast."

Admiral Winslow told the committee that the navy needs at present at least 5000 men for duty on the Pacific coast alone, in order to man all of the reserve ships lying up out of commission, or in ordinary.

IN WAR ARENA

CUNARD CO. WANTS RELEASE OF LINER; BUSINESS CRIPPLED.

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 25.—An effort was made in the house of commons yesterday to secure permission from the government to have the Cunarder Mauritania, sister ship of the Lusitania, seized by a German submarine off the coast of Ireland, released from duty with the admiralty as a hospital ship and restored to her owners. The loss of the Lusitania, and the commandeering of other vessels by the admiralty has crippled the line's Atlantic service seriously, and the directors are now asking for assistance.

LORD DERBY HEADS AVIATION BOARD.

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 25.—Lord Derby, originator of the volunteer enlistment plan in effect just prior to the adoption of compulsion by the British government, has been named to the chairmanship of the joint naval and military board for the control of the air service of the nation.

AVIATOR PLANS WORLD-ENCIRCLING FLIGHT

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 25.—H. P. Adams, a well known aviator of Boston, reached here last night with plans for a gigantic hydroaeroplane with which he hopes to encircle the globe, via Honolulu. The machine will cost, says Mr. Adams, approximately $170,000. It is to be 108 feet wide by 85 feet long, and will be driven by eight motors. Arrangements will be made to carry seven passengers.

The aviator hopes to be able to make the journey completely around the globe, starting from the Golden Gate and going by way of Honolulu, Manila, China, India, Suez canal, Spain and Boston. Representatives of the Aero Club of America and of the navy department are going on the trip as observers and assistants.

DARING HOLDUP NEAR SEATTLE; MAIL ROBBED

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 25.—The North Coast limited, east-bound, was held up near Covington last night. The bandits forced the engine men to haul the baggage, mail and express cars to a forest some distance down the track. The frightened passengers left in their cars later heard an explosion, as the robbers blew up the mail car with dynamite, and fled with the Oriental mail.

GASOLINE SCHOONER BLOWS UP AT DOCK

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 25.—The gasoline fishing schooner Mary Santos, with 23 fishermen on board, was blown up in Boston harbor late yesterday afternoon by an explosion of gasoline in her tanks. The ship caught fire and immediately sank. Two of her crew were killed severely and ten were more or less severely injured. One of the fishermen is missing.

JAPAN WON'T SEND MEN TO BATTLEFRONT

TOKIO, Japan, Feb. 25.—Foreign Minister Ishii yesterday formally denied in the diet the report that Japan is preparing to send men as well as munitions to assist the Russians battling on the eastern front.

WILSON WILL NOT BARTER NATION'S HONOR FOR PEACE

President Determined to Stand For No Surrender of Neutral Rights

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 25.—"Peace at any cost, save honor," is the answer President Wilson has made to the suggestion that the stand he has taken regarding the threat of the Teutonic nations to blow up and destroy without warning any merchant vessel which arms for self defense, may bring the nation into conflict with the Central Powers.

The added suggestion that Americans be forbidden to travel upon vessels so armed the president repudiates scornfully, as an "abridgement of the inherent rights of Americans, to which I shall never consent."

The president's position was made emphatically plain in a letter which he sent in reply to a communication from Senator Stone of Missouri, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations. This letter was made public by the Missouri solon last night. President Wilson writes:

"I can not consent to any such abridgement of what I consider the rights of Americans. I stand, as I have always stood, for peace at any price, save only the price of our nation's honor. To surrender the right of Americans to travel where they please, and by any legitimate means they please to employ, would be a concession tantamount to the confession that the country is impotent to protect itself and its citizens. It would, in fact, be a virtual surrender of the independent position which we have always insisted upon, and shall, I trust, always insist upon."

Continuing, the president said that he believes that when the explanation on their recent warnings to armed merchant craft, comes from the Central powers—an explanation which he added is expected soon—it will give an entirely different aspect to the entire situation, and one which will remove all danger of friction.

Oil lamps lighted the London streets in 1681 and onward, while gas came into use just over 100 years ago. A government survey has resulted in ranking the Yukon river in fifth place among the great streams of North America.
